Dear Mr. President:

I am writing you today to express my concern regarding peace in Northern Ireland.

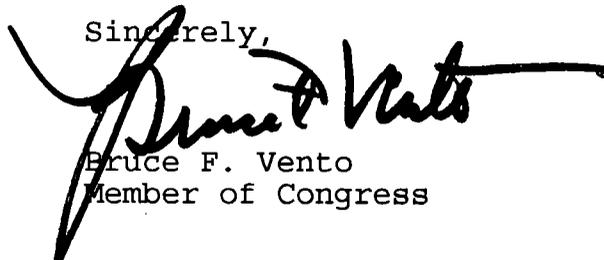

You have previously expressed your support for ending human rights abuses in Northern Ireland and you have shown great leadership by endorsing the MacBride Principles of Fair Employment. You have also expressed some interest in the idea of appointing a Special Envoy to Northern Ireland to assist in the peace process.

I want to commend your leadership on these issues and encourage you to raise these matters in your consultations with Prime Minister Major and the British Government. Millions of Americans, including many of my constituents in St. Paul, Minnesota, trace their ancestral heritage to Ireland. These citizens are vitally interested in the continuing struggle to achieve peace, freedom, and justice for all of the people of Northern Ireland. The United States must stand firmly for human rights all around the world and in Northern Ireland.

Please continue to support all efforts to further the peace process in Northern Ireland and to end human rights abuses in that country.

Warm regards.

Sincerely,

Bruce F. Vento
