THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

February 26, 1996

Dear Mr. ^{Dill} Minister:

It was a pleasure to see you at the White House, although we were all saddened by the tragic news of the bombing in London that came later that day. I know your government and the British government share our determination not to allow terrorists to derail the peace process, to which I remain fully committed.

Also, thank you so much for the framed photograph of Ballybunion. I am delighted to have this thoughtful reminder of your beautiful country. Mrs. Clinton joins me in sending best wishes.

Sincerely,

Bill Clinton

Dear Mr. Minister:

~~It was an honor to welcome you to the White House and discuss the status of the Northern Ireland peace process.~~

a pleasure to see you at the White House, in spite of the tragic news that came later that day
I found our conversation valuable, and I look forward to a continued dialogue regarding efforts that will lead to a long-lasting settlement in Northern Ireland. The United States is confident that the twin-track process will continue to be a useful tool in your negotiations, and we maintain our support for your steadfast endeavors for a lasting peace.

of the best of friends
